

Jeremy Laws

Partner, Commercial Litigation Services

Jeremy studied for his Bachelor's degree at the London School of Economics before reading law in Newcastle. He trained at one of the South East's leading firms and joined Gaby Hardwicke at the beginning of 2007 from a major commercial law firm in Kent, where he was Head of Dispute Resolution.

Jeremy's practice covers all aspects of business litigation and dispute resolution, with particular emphasis on company and partnership disputes, substantial debt claims, insolvency, sale of goods and landlord and tenant.

Examples of his work include acting for a premiership football club in claims against the FA and its shirt sponsor, representing a university in a claim concerning the poaching of a departmental team by a competitor, advising leading insolvency practitioners on claims and procedures in corporate insolvencies, and acting in one of the first reported cases concerning derivative claims and directors' duties under the Companies Act 2006.

Jeremy's specialisms include:

- Commercial Contract Disputes.
- Disputes between Shareholders.
- Insolvency.
- Corporate Litigation.
- Alternative Dispute Resolution.
